JUVENILE BOSTONIANS WILL CHANGE BILL

Tonight's performance of the "Rose of Blandeen" by the Juvenile Bostonians will be the last evening performance of this witty opera, although a matinee is announced for tomorrow (Decoration Day), when Andrew Mack's famous Irish comedy opera will be presented for the last time at the Liberty Theater.

Beginning with tomorrow night "Berta's Billions" will be offered, and as this is a comic opera pure and simple, with a Holland setting and costumes, together with the Dutch dialect, some excellent comedy may be expected from Mrs. Lang's clever aggregation of youngsters. The music of "Berta's Billions" is the most pretentious yet attempted by the Juveniles, and some novelty singing is promised in the way of yodel songs, introducing for the first time here a yodel quartet, and those who heard the Misses Thom Hellen and Lois Mason render a yodel duet in the "Rose of Blandeen" can expect much from this duo, aided by two more voices, in a yodel quartet.

Tomorrow's matinee is scheduled to start at 2:30 prompt and is in the nature of a bargain matinee, the prices being ten, twenty and thirty cents.

BIJOU TO HAVE SPECIAL MATINEE

An all-vaudeville matinee of five acts will be given tomorrow afternoon at the Bijou, on account of it being Decoration Day, when many people will be enjoying a holiday. The matinee will also permit school children to see the great dog act that is being featured this week. The Japanese acrobats with their young assistants is another act that will interest the children. The program as a whole is an exceptional one, as it is very rarely that five acts are offered on any theater bill here, and especially when two of them are headliners in any part of the world.

ICE CREAM CASES ARE POSTPONED

The Japanese ice cream dealers who were arrested by Food Commissioner Edward H. Blanchard for selling low-standard products, were not tried this morning in Police Court. The prosecution was ready to proceed with the case, but as Attorney C. F. Chillingworth was busy in the United States Court this morning, the trial was postponed until May 31.

Those who will appear for trial next Friday morning are H. Ono, S. Deal, Y. Kato, H. Inukai and M. Malda.

Artistic job printing can always be obtained from the Bulletin's completely equipped job printing plant.
